課程簡介

Timely and evidence-based pharmacologic intervention is key in acute ischemic stroke. This presentation explores the roles of intravenous tPA for reperfusion and dual antiplatelet therapy (DAPT) for early secondary prevention. We will review key criteria for tPA administration and examine data from major trials like CHANCE and POINT that support short-term DAPT in minor stroke and high-risk TIA. The session will also address how to balance efficacy and bleeding risks, providing practical guidance for clinical decision-making.
