課程簡介

The Covid-19 pandemic has fundamentally changed the delivery of U.S. health care. This lecture will describe how an academic medical health system rapidly adapted emergency department care for the pandemic. Challenges include: command and control coordination; health care worker safety; supply chain disruptions in personal protective equipment, Covid-19 tests, medications, ventilators, and critical care personnel; surge management and operations re-design; and evolving clinical approach to screening, testing, critical care, and outpatient management.
